Battlelite is possibly the best deal going...

With budgets getting tighter and tighter, asking the brass for a powerful alternate light source may seem futile at best.

The Battlelite may well be the best answer...and one that will definitely pay for itself many times over if added to your crime scene kit. It was originally designed for the U.S. Military to help in the international anti-terrorist campaigns. (We heard in one of the unreleased photos of Bin Laden's body, a Battlelite was partially shown in the background...)

Seriously, this is one serious forensic light. Blindingly bright, it projects a beam of three watt, 455nm blue LED light which has been determined to be the perfect "crime scene search" wavelength.

With the supplied orange bandpass goggles, it will fluoresce untreated bodily fluids like semen, urine and saliva as well as pop all treated fingerprints. Arson evidence, accelerants, sexual assault cases, hairs, bone, fibers – you name it, it flat out works...and without the need for you to get down on your hands and knees.

Rugged military grade aluminum housing includes a hi-lo switch on the side for battery conservation. It operates on two 123 lithium photo batteries which will give you up to two hours of power on the hi setting. We have included an extra set in the kit as well.

The kit construction is a durable Toss-N-Go design so you don't have to be careful with it...this one's dummy proof.

Plus, for a limited time we have added a dazzlingly bright white head for other general crime scene duties that can be switched out for the blue head in about 10 seconds.

And as usual, we've put an unbelievably low price on the kit to spark some interest. And, as usual again, try it for 30 days...don't like it? Don't pay for it.

Battlelite (56031) $275 now $149!

UltraLite now has been retooled to be 3X brighter! At NO EXTRA CHARGE!

The Daddy of them all, the UltraLite ALS has sold outstandingly well for us over the years.

No surprise...the impeccable gun-like design, instant load battery pack, 4 different power illumination settings... it's an all-around winner with all crime scene techs when they've got a couple grand to spend.

Our engineers on this project decided to work on a re-tool and came up with a way to boost the power of the UltraLite by up to 3X!

Although there were no complaints before...we didn't want to shatter their aspirations, so we said yes to their re-tooling...as long as it wouldn't cost you guys anything extra...and as long as the battery consumption is unaffected.

At first, they hemmed and hawed...but in the end we had a deal. More power. No more money, no affected battery drain.

Take advantage of this offer today...or at least take advantage of our free 7-day trial offer!

At last a reliable CA (super glue) Fuming system for in-the-field use!

New to our line, the Capture unit allows you to "fix" latents to your evidence at the crime scene in record time. The entire portable unit comes complete with a built-in heater to heat your super glue, a shatter-resistant clear protective chamber, an exhaust blower, and a particulate/carbon exhaust filter.

Entire unit weighs just over 20 lbs and operates on standard 110 current.

Grunge Scoop may just save you!

You guys know what we mean. You get on a scene. You find a piece of evidence, but everybody is drawing straws to see who has to pick it up and package it. With these disposable Grunge Scoops, you can be the hero!

Made of die-cut cardboard, you can, (in just a couple of seconds) fold these into a little shovel for picking up and packaging that, um...disgusting piece of evidence that you didn't want to put your hands on. There is also a built-in little scoop that detaches on the end so you can use two hands if necessary.

Of course, the Grunge Scoops work just as well on those other "less disgusting" items of evidence. We generally recommend packaging the scoop in with the evidence.

In any event, you'd do yourself well to have a stash of these around just in case.

Grunge Scoop (95456) package of 24 $9.95

We know...the economy is down...but it was time to print a big catalog again.

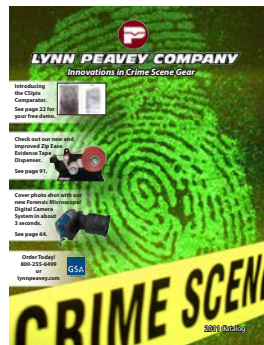

We have been for the past couple of years flooding you guys with smaller Time-Saver catalogs. And these have sufficed for about 95% of your needs. Of course, our website at lynnpeavey.com filled you in on all the rest of the gear that we carry.

But every once in a while a leader in the industry has to fork over the big bucks and print and distribute a big full-line catalog.

We didn't like doing it, but we're sure our phone lines will be flooded with orders once it hits your desks.

This one's got 160-pages of full-color wonderment with quality products designed just for the crime scene investigator. You should be receiving one in the mail sometime during July or August 2011.

Zipr-Weld's new adhesive is now "bullet-proof"

You can't say that about every product.

But we've revamped our adhesive layer to now be absolutely, positively the strongest, most tackiest adhesive going.

We continually monitor the adhesive layer on our evidence tapes and label operation. And the strange thing was, that over the years, manufacturers of common commodities (paper, plastics, etc) were changing their products to include minute by-products and fillers (to presumably stretch production).

Waxes, silicones and oils were showing up in trace amounts... on the finished bags and pouches themselves...not good if you're trying

Go to LPinsanity.com

No spoiling the surprise...but at one of our company meetings...after a few too many beers...we decided to do something...well, kind of insane.

We hired a professional film crew, spent incredible amounts of insurance...sent them seemingly half the world away, and after to get something to stick.

So with your next order, you may notice that the New Zipr-Weld has a new "bite" to it.

You may even notice some samples coming your way so you can test the comparison for yourself. If you're sealing evidence packages with someone else's evidence tape, you might be putting your evidence in jeopardy.

several days, they came back with stunning and unbelievable footage that we chose to dedicate a website specifically for.

All we can say is go to this site. www.LPinsanity.com. The entire clip takes just a minute and a half. We guarantee you'll be shocked.

Crime Scene education has for over 30 years, been one of our cornerstones.

“If you make it, you have to be able to teach it” as we’ve always said.

If you haven’t noticed, I’m not a spring chicken anymore. (And also, if you’re one of those people, you get a dollar from me the next time I see you.)

Sure I still go around teaching crime scene “Gizmos and Gadgets” classes to the thousands of you. But we figured it still wasn’t good enough. I just can’t be everywhere at all times to fit all schedules.

That’s why we developed a FREE on-line crime scene training program found at www.CSIBasics.com. It is basically what the website’s name implies...the basics. Plus, you get the added benefit of seeing me on your computer.

We have selected oodles of our best known crime scene products (that we make most of) and put together little mini videos outlining each one (and its use) individually.

Great for the rookie crime scene officer, but a good refresher for the seasoned tech as well.

Check it out and get registered for free...and give us your feedback on how we should take it to the next level!

Dick has a training class called Gizmos & Gadgets that is held in all parts of the nation. Give us a call to have him do his thing at your next investigators’ organization or training class!

TIPS & TRICKS of the trade

Tip for making your fiber dusters YOUR fiber dusters.

We have tried making our fiber dusters the best that they can be.

The soft generous clusters of thousands of fiberglass filaments, all bundled together in one compact little fingerprint brush... almost makes you want to keep it pristine and clean. But then again, you have to get it all dirty with your favorite color of Peavey Powder to really see its beauty.

But rarely...and we forgive you...you want to trim the 2 ¼" fibers to a shorter length. Some prefer a brush that "flops around" a little less.

And that's O.K. We wouldn't put ketchup on a hot dog either, but if that's what it takes for survival, we'll sell you the hot dog and you put whatever you want on the thing.

Same with our individually hand-made brushes. Do with them what you want. As long as you buy them from us.

Some want us to trim them to a particular length for them. They are afraid of "ruining" the brush. And we are happy to oblige. But we'll tell you a little secret our craftsmen would tell you...

First, start with a good pair of scissors. You don't need to spend top dollar, but if your trimming less than 25 or 50, just a decent pair will do.

Next have a trash can handy to catch the trimmings, otherwise you'll have a blizzard on your hands.

Take a standard water bottle (Coke, Dr. Pepper, etc.) and cut the bottle in approximately half. Save the top half part where the cap is. Run the brush (handle end first) through the opening until you have the length that you want to trim off sticking out.

Trim your brush straight across. It is that easy. If you goof it up, we'll replace it for you at no charge. Honestly, you won't goof it up.

“Dad, I am by the way 18 years old...I can handle it.”

Griffin boldly stated...arguing his point like a hot-shot attorney.

Just as the words came out...a feeling of fear gripped me. Is this my first and only son who now is “ready” to go off to college this fall?

Is my little boy really ready to live away from home?

What about laundry? He has never done a lick of laundry. Heck, it’s a good thing he can swim because his basketball skills are nonexistent...his dirty clothes never even have a chance making it to the laundry basket!

What if he gets a flat tire or other car trouble? Who’ll be there to fix it?

And what if he decides to skip a class and blow off studying...who’ll yell at him to get back in line?

And who will he talk to if he needs to talk about girl trouble or anything else that’s on his mind?

What if he doesn’t like his roommate? Living in the dorm? What about getting along with the swim team that he has already committed to swim for? Will he hang out at the library or at the bars? What if he’s sick? What if he doesn’t have a constant supply of frozen pizzas in the freezer? What if he forgets his raincoat? His jacket? His hat? What if he loses his keys? His car? His student ID?

The fears however are all mine. He is pretty much oblivious to the pressures and fears that he will face. (Which talking with other parents is pretty normal for an 18-year-old.)

Guess that’s just life. His life. Its time to let go and watch. If he needs anyone, he’ll call, as I’m sure he’ll find the number when he runs out of cash.

Kind of scary, this growing up thing. Guess everybody has to do it sometime.

Side note...if he ever travels on college swim team trips to your part of the country...go kind of easy on him if he gets into any trouble...as he says he’s “just 18 years old.”

We'll beat anyone's advertised price! It's that simple. Give us a chance – and we will absolutely convince you!
